

Contents

Preface	iii
Elsner, Jürgen: Tâsa and mrfa` : Two flat-bottomed kettledrums of Yemen	1
Francis Hilarian, Larry: Is Kompang Compatible with Islamic Practices of the Malay Muslim Society?	17
Fujita, Rinko: Uchimono : The percussion instruments of gagaku music	37
Garaj, Bernard: Towards the destiny of the diatonic button accordion on its way from Bohemia to Slovakia	49
Hahmann, Helen: The natural horn wakrapuku and its representative function for the rural area of central Peru	59
Hunter, Justin R.: Redefining Western military drumming tradition: A look at re-representation techniques of Western style military music in late Edo Period Japan	67
Hutchinson Sydney: Country noise in city spaces: Rereading the organology of Dominican merengue típico	79
Jähnichen, Gisa: Report on an experiment with the Gamelan Serdang	91
Kovačič, Mojca: The usage of the church bell : From signaling device to the musical (percussion) instrument	109
Lengwinat, Katrin: Afro-Venezuelan percussion ensembles of the St. John's Festival	121
Lund, Cajsa S.: Early Percussion Stones in Scandinavia: Finds and Traditions	129
Markham, Elizabeth: Hands and Clappers: Parameters of Time Marked in Medieval Japanese Collections of Songs Without Melodies	151
Mashino, Ako: Making sound, communicating with each other, and being on show: Body movements in musical performances of Balinese gamelan	165